Case Study: Highbury College

Highbury College in Portsmouth has over 400 staff and 3000 students. When the Government announced in mid-December 2020 that Covid-19 testing would become mandatory for schools and colleges from January 2021, Highbury's principal appointed us to prepare and operate their testing site. We enabled staff and students to return to college immediately, in safety and without any significant disruption to their work.

We developed a bespoke solution based on our experience overseeing mass public testing for the Government in 2020. Our expertise enabled Highbury to start testing the day after we prepared their site and completed familiarisation training for staff. The feedback from Highbury's staff and students has been overwhelmingly positive, emphasising that we take away the headache of planning and conducting testing, allowing them to focus on teaching and learning.

The team we deployed to Highbury is managed by seasoned Army officers and soldiers with many months of experience delivering Covid-19 testing at scale. Our safety protocols and operational processes are best in class. We also understand how stressful testing can be and know how to put staff and students at ease. We continue to run Highbury's testing site, completing several hundred tests daily.
